VOLUME 07

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Families and Community,

This week is Volunteers Week, and I would like to take this opportunity to thank our volunteers for all that they do. So many things could not happen without our volunteers, including Canteen, Governing Council, SAPSASA and some of our fundraising. We are very lucky that so many people take some time out of their busy lives to support our school by volunteering. THANK YOU!

A quick construction update

Our construction is moving ahead but due to the removal of unexpected asbestos a few weeks ago, the build has been delayed by a few weeks. I am working closely with the builders to ensure everything is completed as quickly as possible. Thank you to everyone for their patience and understanding.

Regards,

Denise Squire

NARRATIVE

The last few weeks Room 12 have been exploring story starters when writing a narrative and how as writers we want to 'hook' the reader into our story straight away, making them want to read more. They have explored the many different ways they can do this. Below are some example of paragraphs students wrote as story starters:

"I gawked at my cupboard. Absolutely petrified. Paralysed with terror. There was something. Something lurking inside of it. Something within the darkness. Its inhumanly pupilless bulging eyes, I just knew, were stalking me throughout the hours of my deep sleep. Its pale white face. Its crippled feet levitating off the ground. I stared at it. It stared at me back. My hands quivered uncontrollably. Buckets of sweat running down my face. Almost incontinent. My head dizzy with horror and fear. It did nothing. It didn't speak. It didn't move. Which only made it scarier. Its white gown was covered in splotches of fresh, and dried blood. The rumours were real. I couldn't believe it. It couldn't be true. There were many stories about this, though, I always ignored it. But right there, in my bedroom...was the infamous ghost."

"Then I see, I see something I never thought I would ever encounter, something so atypical. My face turns lifeless and as pale as a ghost, roughly rubbing my eyes hoping this is all a dream. But it's not, this is reality. Screams breakout from everywhere, people run for their lives. Then someone finally yells out, ZOMBIES! I take a long and hard look at the walking dead, sluggishly crawling towards me. Smearred in blood with black hollow eyes, mouths hanging over demented jaws. Bones jabbing out their skin, contorted in all different directions. Flesh ripped from their faces and bodies, organs hanging out. Their heads barely attached to their necks, the last pieces of skin holding on ready to tear."

"The toy store had looked fun and fascinating from the outside, but inside the terribly uncanny, even disturbing toys sent shivers down in my spine. Lights flickered rapidly. Hearing a strange noise from the hallway, I turned around. I was getting the sense that I wasn't alone. In the corner of my eye, I swore I saw one of the dolls with a particularly evil, malicious smile move. I was thinking to myself that it was probably my imagination. But then suddenly I felt something mysteriously touch my shoulder, I screamed piercingly."

"The captain's breath was heavy. The wind was strong and so was the sea. The captain's mind was blurred with erasable thoughts of death, he knew something bad was about to happen. He could feel it in his nerves. BANG! His head whipped round, only to be met by the sight of a monstrous wave coming ready to crash the ship to pieces. "Incoming!" warned the captain's friend May who was dashing to steer the ship. "it's, it's too late." Stammered the Captain. CRASH! Wood was sent flying."

ABOUT

Come join us for a purrfect evening at our Garfield Movie Fundraiser! Grab your friends and family for a fun afternoon while supporting a great cause.

Please book online using the link below:

<https://www.trybooking.com/CSAWB>

My 9 year old daughter has qualified to represent Australia at a world event in America participating in the ninja warriors and obstacle course racing.

The Ultimate Ninja Athlete Association (UNAA) is holding a UNAA Ninja World Expo at Anaheim (USA) late in July 2024 and Ella will be competing against the best athletes across the world, from America, Canada, Philippines, Hong Kong, China, Russia and more. This movie event is to help Ella get to America and represent Australia.

We'll be screening everyone's favorite lasagna-loving cat, Garfield, in his hilarious movie. Popcorn, snacks, and drinks will be available for purchase to keep you fueled throughout the movie. Don't miss out on this fantastic event that will have you laughing and feeling good about giving back. See you there!
